

The Boomer Chronicles » Blog Archive » I Planned My Funeral, and It Was Fun

<http://www.thegeminweb.com/babyboomer/?p=1935>

February 16, 2012

I just had such a fun time this afternoon. I began planning my funeral. It feels odd to plan your funeral. Most people can't stand the idea of dying. But MyWonderfulLife.com is a comprehensive funeral-planning site that's free and extremely easy to use. So, why not? Once you open your free account, you can choose burial or cremation, fancy casket or not fancy, visitation or not, what kind of music will play, etc., etc. Mostly I said I want it to be party-like. No black clothes, only bright colors. I can't wait!

The founders of the site tell the story of how the sudden death of a spouse, at age 53, got them thinking how unprepared they were to hold a funeral that would have been what the deceased man would have wanted.

I will go back to the site at another time to fill in more information. Frankly, I think it's ingenious. It just makes sense.

This entry was posted on Thursday, August 21st, 2008 at 12:40 pm and is filed under General Stuff. You can follow any responses to this entry through the RSS 2.0 feed. You can leave a response, or trackback from your own site.