

Funerals Are For The Dead

As the old saying goes, “Funerals are for the living.” Not anymore. Now there’s a place where you can theme, decorate, and DJ from the grave (or wherever you happen to end up) – thanks to two Baby Boomers: Nancy Bush and Sue Kruskopf.

Plan your own funeral online

By Jackie Crosby

The generational cohort known as the baby boomers brought us the anti-war movement, the civil rights movement, the women's movement and the gay rights movement.

Could the death movement be next?

I talked a bit about this in my book. From Chapter Five:

My Wonderful Life's promotional video is very cute. I'll embed it here not because I think it's so brilliantly funny – but consider this: Would you have seen a spot like this for funeral services twenty years ago? One with even a hint of humor? We've had quite an impact on almost everything.

Of course, when I die I want a funeral procession with an old rickety horse-drawn carriage, open coffin, priests with long beards in long robes waving incense, and hundreds of women dressed in black and wailing.

But that's just me. My personal statement.

StarTribune.com
Minneapolis - St. Paul, Minnesota

Pouncing Mouses

Many sociologists and futurists are predicting a few more radical social and political upheavals triggered by Baby Boomers before we're packed off in coffins and urns, sprinkled over mystical mountains and mundane golf courses, or blasted into outer space so we can eternally commune with the cosmos.

mywonderfullife BETA
Plan your funeral, your way.